I can only speak on a personal level, but I found that the treatment that I received at the Nuffield Hospital under the care of Mr. Agrawal was excellent.

Every effort was made to ensure that I had chosen the right procedure for me and there was excellent support also from the bariatric nurses and Astrid the dietician. I can honestly say it is the best thing I could have done for my health and wellbeing. I have lost a considerable amount of weight and am taking reduced medication for high blood pressure. The best thing though as far as I am concerned is that from the day of the surgery I have not taken any diabetic medication and indeed my GP has confirmed that I am no longer diabetic.

It is fair to say that this has been a journey. Some ups and downs but 14 months on I would not change my decision.

Jane.
